Over the Desktop

I have always thought Theta jobs were the most satisfying, the most fun. But I've discovered a better one. What could be more satisfying than knowing you were making a difference in the lives of young people, and what could be more fun than getting to snuggle up to Snuffleupagus whenever you pleased! I can't complain however. It was a Theta job that made it possible for me to interview the person who has that job, Theta Joan Ganz Cooney, the creator of the Children's Television Workshop. (See Interview, page 18.)

Talking to her about "Sesame Street" brought back many happy memories of sitting in front of the television set with my three children watching Big Bird and his friends. Snuffleupagus wasn't around then. In fact, watching the show recently, I noticed that there were several new characters since the '60s, but the reaction of the children hasn't changed.

I called 5-year-old Kate Holloway, former editor Susan Holloway's daughter and a "Sesame Street" fan, to talk to her about the show. She said they had to watch it from the beginning because Curt (her 3-year-old brother) wants to see the dog that comes on first. Says Kate, "Big Bird is my favorite character. Ernie made a big mess, and Bert didn't want him to live there any more. Bert got sad and went out looking for Big Bird to make him happy."

We can all use someone to make us happy when we are sad.

Talking to Cooney about the women's movement, values and success made me realize again how fortunate we are to belong to an organization like Theta, one that was founded on independence, high expectations and risk taking. Zara Rolfes, Alpha Chi/Purdue, (featured in the Profile on page 38) is a young woman exhibiting all of these qualities. She and Cooney would be great friends.

The number one best-selling book on college campuses according to the most recent survey by The Chronicle of Higher Education is All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten by Robert Fulghum. It's interesting to note that in this age of falling governments, telescopes that will enable us to study stars more than 14 billion light years away, and Donald Trump and Marla Maples, kindergarten rules and "Sesame Street" still maintain relevancy and value. Maybe things aren't so bad after all.

Message from the President

Kappa Alpha Theta wants you! She wants your loyalty. She wants your dedication to our ideals. She wants your continued involvement.

As pledges, we began by stating our belief in the true worth and merit of Kappa Alpha Theta. We promised to be earnest, faithful and enthusiastic workers for her advancement and welfare. This promise did not stop at the end of our college years. It was a commitment every member made to ensure a strong Kappa Alpha Theta for generations to come.

The Greek system faces many challenges, and Theta must be ready to meet them. Our collegiate chapters need the support of full advisory and house corporation boards and of the local alumnae chapters and clubs to give them the guidance to successfully meet these challenges. Our most successful college chapters tend to be those with interested, involved alumnae. But sadly, there are chapters functioning on their own because local alumnae aren't involved and don't seem to be interested. Involvement is a responsibility of every member of Kappa Alpha Theta.

We are all aware that the volunteer pool is shrinking, as careers and family obligations demand much of our time. Kappa Alpha Theta must look for ways to make our volunteer positions manageable for members with jobs outside the home. One solution lies in the use of more Theta volunteers to take the responsibilities formerly done by a single officer. If every member would keep in touch with Theta and be willing to give her time and talents to the degree she is able during each phase of her life, our resources for advisory boards, house corporations and international officers would be vast. If every Theta member would honor the commitment made at pledging, we could make the volunteer responsibilities more manageable for today's busy women.

Kappa Alpha Theta wants you! Here's how you can make a difference:

- Use the directory in this issue to contact the college and alumnae district presidents in your district or the Director of Personnel to ask how you can become more involved.
- Contact your alumnae district president to locate other Thetas in your area to organize a new alumnae club or chapter.
- Challenge the members of your local alumnae group to take a stronger interest in all the chapters in the district. Communicate with the collegians; congratulate them on their successes; encourage them as they strive to be better.

Whatever your talent or available time, Theta has a place for you. Theta wants you; Theta needs you!

Magazine Does Good Job

Spring break last week afforded me the opportunity to briefly wade through the pile of fraternity and sorority magazines in my reading bin and, as always, The Kappa Alpha Theta Magazine was one of the most enjoyable and educational publications. I was particularly pleased to see the article entitled "The College Woman of the '90s" and have filed it for use in future workshops.

Your comments in "Over the Desktop" were very appropriate. In all aspects of Greek life we need to be creating our future, rather than letting it happen to us.

Congratulations on such a consistently high-quality publication and on addressing issues relevant to both collegians and alumnae in this new decade. I will continue to look forward to what innovations your editorship brings to the magazine.

Friendship Fund Brings More Than Money

I recently experienced an accident that will require months of recovery for me and my family. Yesterday, I was feeling particularly low and frustrated. In the mail, came a beautiful letter and a check from our Friendship Fund. It brought tears of joy and a warmth of caring that will sustain me for a long time. I know I am not alone and this gives me strength. Thank you dear friends.

Editor's note: Friendship Fund gifts are made anonymously, and the recipient never knows who requested the gift for her. If you know of some Theta in need of the special help the Friendship Fund can bring, send two letters written on her behalf to Janet Peters c/o Central Office.

More On Campus Violence

God bless Theta for running an article that was right on target about campus safety. When I arrived at the University of North Carolina as a collegian in the fall of 1985, the University police assured me and my freshman cohorts of the low crime rate in our sleepy little college town. Through my volunteer work as a counselor at the local rape crisis center, I discovered that the image of serenity was blatantly false. I learned that rape and violence happen to women from all walks of life, although more advantaged women often feel themselves immune. Unfortunately, attackers give no regard to the social status of their victims.

To Theta collegians, I say, "Be brave." Many times during my college years, I was called "paranoid" or "silly," even by the best of friends, simply for sticking up for my own safety — for not being naive enough to think crime couldn't happen to me. It's too bad that some college women still cannot see self-protection as something they owe themselves. I know that Thetas, armed with knowledge and self-respect, will make the choice to listen to their gut reactions and, perhaps, to save their lives.

Taking Note

Alumnae

Alpha Upsilon/Washburn alumna Barbara King Wilson was recognized for her commitment to the Kansas State University Foundation in December. KSU Foundation's newsletter highlighted Wilson's involvement with the organization's Board of Trustees and Executive Committee. She also serves on the Board of Trustees and Alumni Association of her alma mater. Washburn awarded Wilson and her late husband the Distinguished Service Award in 1978.

President Bush appointed Jane Bergman Artist, Beta Gamma/Colorado State, director for Region VIII of the Department of Health and Human Services. Artist is the first woman to hold the position.

Mary C. Carruthers, Delta Omicron/Alabama, was elected to the Board of Directors of the Insurors of Memphis for a two-year term in January. Carruthers also recently received the designations CIC (Certified Insurance Counselor) and CPIW (Certified Professional Insurance Woman) after an education program sponsored by the Society of Certified Insurance Counselors.

Thekla Reese Shackelford, Beta Tau/Denison, was honored with the Christine Conaway Award for Education from the Columbus YWCA in January. Shackelford received the award as one of the group's 1990 Women of Achievement.

Beta Lambda/William & Mary and Epsilon Psi/Richmond collegians haul a new roll of carpet into a house they are helping to renovate for an underprivileged family in Virginia.

Collegians

Chapter President Mary Sowden and the rest of Omicron Chapter/USC have developed an innovative, positive plan called "The Four-Point Program," which helps chapter members focus on four commitments: the earth, the community, the school and the chapter. As part of this program, the chapter has adopted a whale and is involved in local child abuse prevention projects.

For two years, Beta Xi/UCLA Chapter member Celeste Murphy has been encouraging UCLA's Greek chapters to recycle aluminum cans and newspapers. Murphy founded a campus program, S.A.F.F.T.E. (Sororities and Fraternities for the Environment), in 1988, which works with the Los Angeles Conservation Corps in collecting recyclable goods. S.A.F.F.T.E. also plans to encourage Greeks to recycle glass and plastic bottles and to use fewer disposable plastic, paper and styrofoam plates and cups.

Catherine Tillotson McCord and Margaret Emily McGaughey Stoner, Alpha/DePauw, have been friends for many years and travel companions for the past eight or nine years. Stoner is a 50-year Theta, and McCord received her 75-year pin this year. Their travels have taken them to China, Korea, South America, the Balkans and Iceland. Last fall they took a cruise on the Nile. The 92 year-old McCord said, "I was crazy about it!"

Gamma deuteron/Ohio Wesleyan alumna Ula McNamara Watts wrote and directed "Celebrate Follies!," the 20th anniversary show to benefit the Marion, Ohio, Junior Service Guild last fall. The show, presented in November, was the latest effort in Watts' successful career as a stage director in Marion. The 77-year-old alumna's community theatrical productions include such hits as "Annie," "Hello, Dolly," "Oklahoma," "The King and I" and others.

Tau Chapter/Northwestern joined the Greek Alumni, Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils in opposition to a University decision to move rush from fall to winter quarter. Lisa Bainbridge was instrumental in founding SORR (Students Opposing Rush Restrictions). SORR's objections were social limitations placed on freshmen, financial problems for all Greek chapters and possible negative repercussions for the entire system. To demonstrate these concerns, SORR entered a float in the annual homecoming parade. Theta Kelly Kalich was chairman of the entry, "Save the Wildlife," which won first place.

Catherine McCord, right, and Margaret Emily Stoner, Alpha/DePauw, friends and traveling companions for many years, get a taste of the local transportation on their trip to Egypt last fall.

Gamma deuteron/Ohio Wesleyan recognized five members with special award pins during the chapter's Founders Day celebration in January. Marcia Kessinger, Chapter President Eli Mixon, Katy Corns, Stacey McKune and Panhellenic President Evelyn Jones received pins.

When the Centre College women's basketball team made it to the Final Four of the NCAA Division III tournament in March, the eyes of Epsilon Eta Chapter were on the Lady Colonels. Every member of the 20th-ranked Centre team, including the manager, is a Theta. This was the second consecutive trip to the Final Four for the team, which finished the season with a 22-8 record.

Barbara Braham, Kappa/Kansas, CALM Down: How to Manage Stress at Work, (Scott, Foresman and Co., 1990). A description of concrete ways to manage stress through CALM, a four-step process.

Katherine Gentry Bushman, Alpha Mu/Missouri, Registers of Free Blacks of Augusta County and the City of Staunton, Virginia, 1810-1864, (Mid-Valley Press, 1989). A record of free blacks in the area, taken directly from Augusta county records.

Patricia Lounsbury Bliss, Beta Omicron/Iowa, Christian Petersen Remembered, (Iowa State University Press, 1989). A biography of the Danish-American sculptor, who began his 20-year career during the Great Depression, and who set trends in mid-20th century American art.

Collegians from Beta Lambda/William & Mary and Epsilon Psi/Richmond combined efforts for a weekend of repairing houses for the underprivileged in October. The Thetas worked with Housing Projects, Inc., which rehabilitates dilapidated and unsafe homes for families in three southeastern Virginia counties. In one day, they rebuilt a front porch, built stairs, painted an entire house and repaired roofing and a kitchen floor. According to the organization's coordinator, "Through the efforts of Kappa Alpha Theta, we were able to accomplish more in one day than we often can in a month."

Theta Joins FIPG

Grand Council is pleased to announce that Theta has joined the Fraternity Insurance Purchasing Group, Inc., better known as FIPG. FIPG is an extensive risk management policy in the areas of alcohol, hazing, sexual abuse and chapter health and safety. It was developed by the Fraternity Executives Association in 1987 for men's fraternities at a time when many were having difficulty finding liability coverage.

Delta Gamma, Alpha Chi Omega and Theta are the first women's fraternities to join the group. While finding insurance has not been as great a problem for women's organizations, insurance costs have risen substantially in the past few years. Men's and women's fraternities share liability and risk management concerns and are looking for ways to cooperate in reducing risk.

By adhering to the risk management provisions, Theta not only increases its defensibility in the case of a lawsuit but also supports the men's groups, which have instigated these efforts to encourage responsible behavior.

The provisions are binding on all member fraternities. Many of the provisions have long been part of Theta's risk management procedures. In cases where Theta policies are more stringent, they will take precedence. The College Committee will work with collegiate chapters to help implement the changes that will occur in their party planning as a result of FIPG.

The men's groups have been critical of the women in the past, charging that fraternities have been forced to host most of the parties on their premises and that women guests contribute to the atmosphere of irresponsible party behavior. On the other hand, the women have criticized the men for not having more stringent alcohol policies. By subscribing to the same risk management procedures, both groups join in a spirit of cooperation to foster responsible behavior.

Fraternity Insurance Purchasing Group Risk Management Policy

The Risk Management Policy of the Fraternity Insurance Purchasing Group includes the provisions which follow and shall apply to all fraternity entities and all levels of fraternity membership.

Alcohol and Drugs

1. The possession, use and/or consumption of ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES, while on Chapter premises, during an official fraternity event, or in any situation sponsored or endorsed by the Chapter, must be in compliance with any and all applicable laws of the state, province, county, city and university.
2. No alcoholic beverages may be purchased through the Chapter treasury nor may the purchase of same for members or guests be undertaken or coordinated by any member in the name of or on behalf of the Chapter. The purchase and/or use of a bulk quantity of such alcoholic beverage, i.e., kegs, is prohibited.
3. No Chapter members, collectively or individually, shall purchase for, serve to, or sell alcoholic beverages to any minor (i.e., those under legal "drinking age").
4. The possession, sale and/or use of any ILLEGAL DRUGS or CONTROLLED SUBSTANCES at any Chapter house, sponsored event or at any event that an observer would associate with the fraternity, is strictly forbidden.
5. No Chapter may co-sponsor an event with an alcohol distributor, charitable organization or tavern (tavern defined as an establishment generating more than half of annual gross sales from alcohol) where alcohol is given away, sold or otherwise provided to those present.
6. No Chapter may co-sponsor or co-finance a function where alcohol is purchased by any of the host chapters, groups or organizations.
7. All rush activities associated with any Chapter will be DRY rush functions.
8. OPEN PARTIES, meaning those with unrestricted access by non-members of the fraternity, without specific invitation, where alcohol is present, shall be prohibited.
9. No member shall permit, tolerate, encourage or participate in "drinking games."
10. No alcohol shall be present at any pledge/associate member/novice program or activity of the Chapter.

Fire, Health and Safety

1. All Chapter houses shall, prior to, during and following occupancy, meet all local fire and health codes and standards.
2. All chapters must have posted by common phones, emergency numbers for fire, police and ambulance and must have posted evacuation routes on the back of the door of each sleeping room.
3. All Chapters shall comply with engineering recommendations as reported by the insurance company.

FEA Ads Attempt to Improve Greek Image

Hazing

No Chapter shall conduct hazing activities. Hazing activities are defined as:

"Any action taken or situation created, intentionally, whether on or off fraternity premises, to produce mental or physical discomfort, embarrassment, harassment or ridicule. Such activities may include but are not limited to the following: use of alcohol; paddling in any form; creation of excessive fatigue; physical and psychological shocks; quests, treasure hunts, scavenger hunts, road trips or any other such activities carried on outside or inside of the confines of the Chapter house; wearing of public apparel which is conspicuous and not normally in good taste; engaging in public stunts and buffoonery; morally degrading or humiliating games and activities; and any other activities which are not consistent with fraternal law, ritual or policy, or the regulations and of the educational institution."

Sexual Abuse

The fraternity will not tolerate or condone any form of sexually abusive behavior on the part of its members, whether physical, mental or emotional. This is to include any actions which are demeaning to women including but not limited to date rape, gang rape or verbal harassment.

Education

Each student member, associate member and pledge shall be instructed annually on the Risk Management Policy of the Fraternity Insurance Purchasing Group.

The advertisement below is one in a series of four commissioned by the Fraternity Executives Association. FEA hired a public relations firm to study and analyze the issues facing men's fraternities. Not surprisingly, the firm identified the same four major problems recognized by national officers of both men's and women's organizations: alcohol abuse, racism, sexism and hazing. Ads were developed to address each of the topics to demonstrate that the fraternities recognize and accept responsibility for the problems.

Mo Littlefield, Executive Director of Sigma Nu and President of FEA, is quick to point out, however, that fraternities are not the only ones who are accountable for these problems. Society, parents, elementary and secondary school teachers and university faculty members all share in the responsibility to develop appropriate attitudes in young people, attitudes which lead to responsible behavior. Nor is it only the Greek students who have these problems. Littlefield says, "We are alert, aware, acutely aware, of the problems. We like to think that we (the fraternity system) stand as a haven in opposition to these problems."

Because the primary target for the PR campaign was faculty members and university administrators, the ads, requiring three full pages, were placed in The Chronicle of Higher

Why join a Fraternity that won't let you rape your date?

because ALL Fraternities oppose date rape!

Date Rape has nothing to do with the fraternity experience.

It is the most blatant form of sexual harassment that demeans both men and women.

We, the men's general fraternities united in the National Interfraternity Conference, are dedicated and determined to deal with date rape.

We stand united in our affirmation of basic standards of human behavior.

We instill the principles of diligence, honor, integrity, virtue, duty and respect for human dignity.

Consider these facts:

- A reported rape happens every six minutes in the United States.
- More than half of the rapes occur between people who have met before: so-called "date rapes."
- Women are most vulnerable for rape during the first year of college and one in five will be the victim of sexual assault by someone she knows during her college years.
- In a 1985 study one in 12 college men admitted they had forced—or tried to force—a woman to have sex.
- The same study reported that one in eight women on campus had been raped.

This is what we're doing about it:

- Fraternities are dedicated to developing healthy lifelong relationships built on mutual respect and high regard. The ideals of brotherhood demand respect for human dignity—both male and female.
- Fraternity members do not condone date rape. They condemn it.
- Many high school students are sexually active when they enter college but have had little or no guidance on what is acceptable sexual behavior. Fraternities are providing a safe and attractive environment for young people. We help instill responsible attitudes that will affect their adult behavior for the rest of their lives.

Violation of our standards leads to swift and certain sanctions: ranging from directives to probation to suspension to expulsion—even to revocation of charter and dissolution of chapter. We're serious about Date Rape and we think you ought to know it.

If you think you have to demonstrate your virility or prove your manhood through sexual harassment or forced sex, don't waste your time on fraternities. But if you're interested in finding out how the leaders of tomorrow can experience the joy of mature relationships with respect for individual dignity then write to us at the Fraternity Executives Association, 3901 W. 86th St, Suite 390, Indianapolis, IN 46268.

We're in the business of developing leaders with integrity: brotherhood is an essential ingredient.

America's

"Developing Integrity In Leadership"

Education. They were also distributed to all fraternity chapters and appeared in most fraternity magazines for the benefit of alumni members. Feedback from the college chapters and Greek advisors has been very positive, according to Littlefield, but response from faculty has been neutral. Sid Dunn, Executive Director of Alpha Epsilon Pi and President-Elect of FEA, says, "We were unable to do a market survey of our targeted audience because The Chronicle does not have the appropriate lists. It has been very frustrating."

Kappa Alpha Theta applauds the initiative of FEA in addressing these critical areas of concern for the entire Greek system, and we are pleased to call this effort to your attention. However, Dunn says, "We're just not sure of the overall impact. The daily negative articles reporting the behavior of our chapters are the ultimate public relations determiners."

Theta Connection Program

Have You Connected?

The Theta Connection Program (TCP), established in 1982, is a career resource network that connects job-seeking Thetas with professional Thetas. We now have the career information of more than 2,000 Thetas listed in the international career data bank at Kappa Alpha Theta Central Office.

Theta Connection Program Directory

Theta sisters of all ages who are entering the job market or moving to new locales can use the TCP Directory as a networking resource. A new feature in this 1990 edition is called TCP Home Base — another program aimed at helping job-seeking Thetas.

Please keep in mind that TCP is not a job placement service, nor is it an advertising vehicle for individual Thetas' businesses. TCP is a career resource network designed to put Thetas in personal contact with other Thetas. It is one more link in the chain of sisterhood.

A Reminder

Theta Bylaws prohibit use of Theta lists for commercial purposes. The women listed in the TCP Directory have submitted information voluntarily to help other Thetas. It is very important that this service not be misused. It must not be used "for commercial purposes, for non-fraternal charitable appeals, for fraternal appeals or for the advocacy of personal opinions" (Rule XI, Section 1).

The TCP Directory Contains:

Professional Listings

Names are grouped by Occupation Categories. Each listing begins with the Theta's member number, followed by the college chapter name. The next lines contain her full name and address, followed by the job title provided by the individual on the Career Data Form. In many cases, the Theta's business address is listed as well. Within each category, listings are clustered by zip code.

After finding desirable listings, it is up to you to make the connection with a personal letter. We advise you to also send a résumé if you have one. A sample letter and suggestions for making successful connections are included in the Directory.

Career Connectors

A local Career Connector in an alumnae chapter or club can provide personal contact in a specific locale. Her copy of the Directory may have additional listings. She can provide information about the local alumnae organization and its activities for professionals. She can help define metropolitan regions. Remember, it is not her role to find jobs but to provide contacts and information.

TCP Home Base

TCP Home Base is a new feature premiering in this edition. Career Connectors who are also willing to help job-seekers find a place to stay overnight are listed. Full instructions on how to use this program are included.

Zeta Kappa Chapter Installed at USC

As the performers in the final act exited the stage, the master of ceremonies stepped to the microphone and began, "The competition was very tough." A large group of supporters, clutching black and gold balloons, huddled together and crossed their fingers. The emcee continued, "After much consideration, the judges have made a decision. First place goes to the Zeta Kappa colony of Kappa Alpha Theta!"

The emcee was talking about the Homecoming skit competition, but the competition had been tough from the beginning, as Theta joined ten other women's sororities at the University of South Carolina last fall. It didn't take long for the 123 women, Theta's largest pledge class ever, to establish their mark.

One month after pledging, they entered the Cockfest skit competition: the Homecoming pep rally for the fighting Gamecocks and one of the largest Greek competitions of the year. In fact, it is the largest pep rally in the state. Theta's win over the other more experienced sororities made the campus sit up and take notice.

But the colony didn't stop there. They built a Homecoming float, won events in the Derby Days competitions and participated in numerous service activities — all while trying to get to know their new sisters. "The pledge activities were the best," declared sophomore Lisa Jennings. "We went on a pledge retreat to Lake Murray, had a picnic on campus together and had a different Kite Pal each week. It really helped us meet everyone."

The group also organized activities with alumnae. On the day of the Clemson/Carolina football game, South Carolina's biggest game of the season, the USC Thetas held a reception for Clemson Thetas and alumnae. During December, they invited area alumnae to a Winter Warming Christmas party with

The busy colony also found time for a variety of social functions with non-Thetas. In addition to a number of activities with other USC Greeks, the energetic group sponsored a non-alcoholic Halloween masquerade ball for the entire campus. Before Christmas, they held a Kite and Key semi-formal with Kappa Kappa Gamma.

With all these activities, however, academics were not forgotten. Lynne Bolt and Emmie Wyatt received 4.0 grade point averages, and 18 women made the Dean's list, which requires a 3.5 or better. Forty-four members made over a 3.0 GPA.

The week before installation the women met for lunch each day and gathered for the much-studied-for pledge test. Later in the week they celebrated their birthday. After all, they were zero years old! On Thursday night at a fireside, they reflected on their approaching initiation.

Grand President Janet Peters and the installation team led the initiation and charter services January 27-29, 1990, assisted by the women of Delta Phi/Clemson. In addition to Grand President Peters, the installation team included Grand Vice-President Sue Blair-Sheets;

Grand Vice-President Alumnae Jane Hedges; College Regional Director Carol McPadden; Director of Colonizations and Installations Marilyn Lynch; Alumnae District President Gay Brown; Chapter Consultants Lynda Fairman, LynnAnn Baldwin and Katie Bax; and Central Office staff members Kelley Galbreath, Paige Thompson and Susan Kiley.

The weekend began with the Loyalty Service at the historic Rutledge Chapel on campus. On Saturday, Kappa Alpha Theta's Founders Day, colony members were initiated, 120 years after Bettie Locke Hamilton initiated the Fraternity's founding members. That evening a dessert reception was held at the Columbia Museum of Art, where Kappa Alpha Theta sponsored an exhibit entitled, "Images of Women." The exhibit, drawn entirely from the collection of the Museum, acknowledged the importance of women to art as artists and as subjects of creative endeavors.

The new initiates gathered Sunday morning at the Marriott Hotel for the charter service, conducted by Grand President Peters, followed by a model chapter meeting and installation of officers. Afterward the women joined over 300 friends, family members and USC dignitaries for a luncheon banquet in the hotel's ballroom.

Zeta Kappa President Anastasia Medes summed up her feelings in her banquet speech, "We had to work very hard to get to know each other, plan and carry out activities and become recognized as an outstanding organization on this campus, but it's all been worth it. Right now, I am so proud to be a Theta." Yes, the competition was tough, but Zeta Kappa met the test with flying colors.

Flash: Zeta Kappa's winning streak is still in place as they won Greek Week, the second major Greek competition at South Carolina. The chapter placed second in the Greek Games and won the Shield and Crest Drawing Contest and Gong Show, making them the overall women's champion. On the same night, the Order of Omega inducted Sharon Ratcliff, the current chapter president, and Debbie Drucker into membership and announced that Advisory Board Chairman Helen Summer was the Chapter Adviser of the Year.

Kappa Alpha Theta Takes Charleston by Storm

Kappa Alpha Theta talked of taking Charleston by storm, but no one thought that Mother Nature would take us literally! Colonization activities were scheduled for September 24 - 27, 1989. Hurricane Hugo struck on September 21. The city of Charleston was devastated; Theta would have to wait. So while South Carolina was putting the pieces back together, Theta planned for a January colonization at the College of Charleston.

January arrived peacefully, with no natural disasters. On the 24th, Zeta Lambda became Theta's newest colony. The spotlight that evening was not focused on the colonization team (Grand Vice-President Development Sue Blair-Sheets, Grand Vice-President Alumnae Jane Hedges, Director of Colonizations and Installations Marilyn Lynch, College Regional Director Carol McPadden, Director of Rush Development Anne Payne, Alumnae District President Gaye Brown, Director of Chapter Services Betsy Sierk, Editor Sue Supple and Chapter Consultants Katie Bax and LynnAnn Baldwin), but instead on the 95 young women gathered in the ballroom of the Student Center. These women were strangers for the most part, about to begin sharing a bond called Kappa Alpha Theta.

Laura Jennings, left, Zeta Lambda corresponding secretary, and Michelle Lilly, rush chairman, share ideas in preparation for next year's rush. The Zeta Lambda Thetas' innovative ideas have already made them a positive force on the Charleston campus.

But at that point the only thing anyone thought they had in common was wearing a little black and gold pledge pin and learning songs about kites. As the next two months unfolded, things became a bit more serious as each woman began to realize the challenge she had undertaken.

The first step was to elect officers and start planning service, scholarship and educational programs. Through all of these programs, the secret to what Theta is about began to unravel little by little. One important ideal of Theta is to recognize a person's individuality, encourage it and watch it grow. Zeta Lambda Chapter has exemplified that in every way by supporting each other's ideas and programs, including participation in Special Olympics, the March of Dimes "Walk America," the People Against Rape march "Take Back the Night," and the College's Homecoming, Greek Day and Songfest. The social agenda has included functions with many of the other Greek organizations on campus. The enthusiasm was overwhelming.

The Zeta Lambda Chapter does not consist of passive women who are willing to sit and let others do the work. These women are filled with innovative ideas and high-aiming goals for the future. They are ready to act and make their dreams a reality. College of Charleston students have complimented the Thetas on their powerful presence and the positive impression they continue to leave in their path.

Grand President Janet Peters and the installation team led the initiation and charter services on March 23 - 25, 1990. The installation team consisted of Peters, Hedges, Brown, Bax and Chapter Consultants Tracy Bartels and Lynda Fairman, and Central Office staff members, Kelley Galbreath, Susan Kiley and Paige Thompson.

With installation behind them, Zeta Lambda is ready to work even harder in future activities. The Fraternity has a tradition of focusing on the future, and Zeta Lambda intends to make sure that it will play a positive and active role in the future of the College of Charleston as well as in the Charleston community.

"The women of Zeta Lambda want every member to be viewed as an individual and respected for who she is. We want to create an environment where all kinds of members can put differences aside, come together and learn from one another's experiences in life. Our pride in what we stand for is shown in what we do every day—from wearing our letters to the support we give to each individual member," says President Liz Murphy.

Joan Ganz Cooney, Beta Delta/Arizona, set out to change the world, and she did! Twenty-one years ago she started a show that revolutionized television. "Sesame Street," named after the Arabian Nights story "Open Sesame," opened the eyes of the world to the educational opportunities TV has to offer young children. Today, Children's Television Workshop, the company she started with a good deal of help from the Carnegie Corporation, sells its programming to more than 300 stations and cable outlets, is viewed in 80 countries, has been translated into seven foreign languages and has an annual budget of $88 million.

Cooney is quick to point out that the idea for "Sesame Street" was not hers alone. "The creation of the workshop at 'Sesame Street' was always a joint process. There were always others involved who have not gotten nearly as much credit as they should." But without Cooney, one wonders how far it might have gotten.

Seeing herself as an idealist,

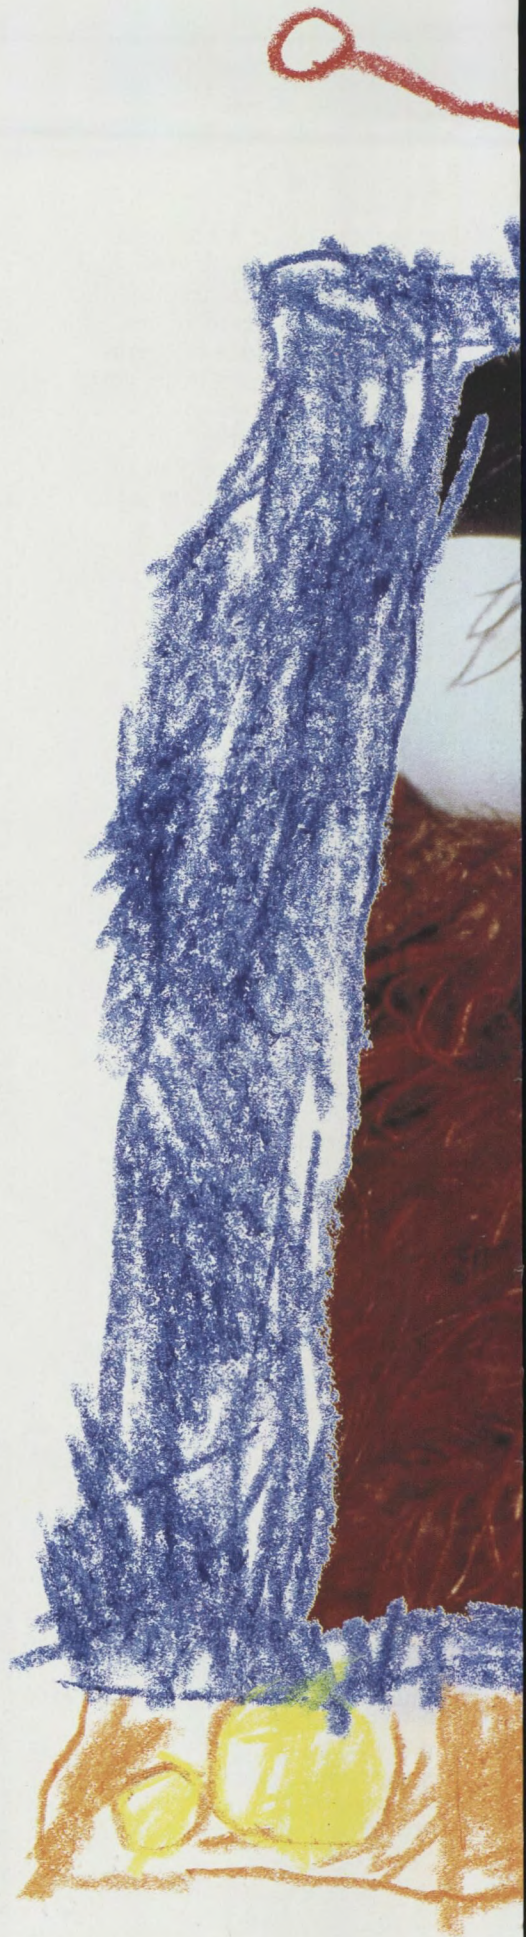

As The Count passionately counts everything he can find, children learn early math skills.

Cooney attributes her desire to go into television to Father Keller of the Christopher movement (a movement with no organizational structure, founded in the U.S. in 1946 to bring Christian principles to American public and private life). Cooney says, "Father Keller was very forceful in his belief that idealists should go into the government or into mass media, because that was where the greatest influence was exerted."

Cooney was also strongly influenced by her Theta sisters. Joan Ganz transferred to the University of Arizona and was initiated into Beta Delta Chapter in 1949. She developed strong friendships with five or six chapter members who shared her idealism, friendships that remain strong today. These sisters encouraged the idea that one should do good in life.

After graduation in 1951, "doing good" meant reporting for her hometown newspaper, The Arizona Republic. She then moved to New York City to work as a publicist for NBC and "The U.S. Steel Hour," a highly acclaimed CBS drama series.

In her quest to make a valuable contribution to the world, Joan Ganz Cooney, Beta Delta/Arizona, has introduced young children in the U.S. and throughout the world to a host of "Sesame Street" characters, like Mr. Snuffleupagus, who make learning fun.

Later, Cooney's good works meant producing documentaries for WNET, New York City's educational TV station. A three-hour documentary titled "Poverty, Anti-Poverty and the Poor," led to an Emmy Award for Cooney in 1966. She was deeply involved in the civil rights movement and in all kinds of anti-poverty programs that were the start of the Great Society projects in Washington, D.C.

It was this involvement that led to an offer from the Carnegie Corporation to conduct a study on the potential uses of television in pre-school education. The study turned into a grant proposal to Carnegie, and the Children's Television Workshop (CTW) was created. Listening to children singing beer commercials, Cooney realized that television was teaching, whether intentionally or not, so why not use commercial techniques to teach letters and numbers. Eighteen months later, using puppets, animation, live action, color and music, "Sesame Street" was on the air, followed by "The Electric Company" and "3-2-1 Contact."

In spite of the almost instant success of the shows, there were financial problems, and Cooney had to take time away from programming to develop an organization that could sustain itself over the long run. This meant licensing toys, books and other products, which today produces two-thirds of CTW's income. The future looks bright for CTW. At the forefront of children's television, Cooney and CTW are sure to play an important role as America increases its focus on education in the next decade.

Cooney lives in New York with husband Peter G. Peterson, former U.S. Secretary of Commerce. She sits on a number of corporate boards in addition to WNET/Channel 13; Chase Manhattan Bank and Corporation, Johnson & Johnson, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and Xerox Corporation. She also serves on the National Child Labor Committee and Council on Foreign Relations.

She has received numerous awards including the National Association of School Administrators Gold Key Award; the Society for the Family of Man Award for Excellence in the Field of Education; the Ladies Home Journal Women of the Decade Award and its One of the 25 Most Important Women in American History Award; the National Education Association's Friend of Education Award; the National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences Lifetime Achievement Award for Daytime Television and most recently has been inducted into the Television Academy's Hall of Fame. She has received honorary degrees from many colleges and universities, including Princeton, Georgetown, Harvard, Notre Dame, Brown and Smith.

In a telephone interview, Cooney shared her thoughts on sororities, CTW, the women's movement and success.

How do you feel about sororities?

I've done the same kind of thing in my thinking about them that America has done. They went out of style for awhile in the late '60s and some of the '70s. But I think they are a good thing now because campuses tend to be huge, and unless you organize things in some way or another, you're never going to have relationships. You can't easily have relationships and friendships with people you want when there are so many people. For a while, I thought they were discriminatory with preference cards and all, that hearts were broken unnecessarily. But I have come to the conclusion that they are not bad at all. I think now that most people who want to be, are in sororities and fraternities.

Did any of your Beta Delta sisters influence you, and are you still in contact with any of them today?

I was drawn to the same kinds of people in the chapter, people who were, I guess, idealistic, and was very close to Ginny Grose (Virginia Grose Young). In fact, I lived with her and her family in Washington. I was very close to Pat Jackson, who was a class ahead of me. Pat was extremely idealistic, and we all had a great love of literature and poetry. We very much felt one person could make a difference and that we ought to do good in life. Those friendships that were forged at Beta Delta had a very strong influence on me. I'm still in touch with Ginny and Pat, Susan Merriam Cohill and with Ann O'Malley Knowlton, who got married in my senior year. She was also very idealistic, very much that type.

One of the issues Theta has been addressing lately for both alumnae and collegiate members is the concept of the superwoman. How have you managed to balance career and marriage and family?

With great difficulty! Anyone who

"There is no secret to success. It's not a secret. What you have to do is really work hard."

Since its first season in 1969, "Sesame Street" has been a positive force for education through television. While the show's adult cast, like Susan (right), have grown up and its younger cast members have moved on, "Sesame Street" has continued to give valuable lessons in not only letters and numbers, but in kindness and acceptance.

pretends it is not a juggling act is crazy. I had career and marriage without children. I've been married twice and acquired a number of stepchildren in my later career, my second marriage. I don't know what I would have done if I had had children while in the process of becoming what I became. I'm not sure I would have had the same career because mine entailed so much travel. If I had young children, I don't know if I would have done it or not. I would certainly have had a career, but I'm not sure it would have been the one I had.

I made the Children's Television Workshop my baby precisely because I didn't have children. I wanted them, but that didn't happen, so my career became more and more my child.

We have many young women in the company who are combining career and young children, and they are very stressed out. There's no question about it. But it can be done where there's a will to do it.

It is infinitely easier to have a career if you have a good marriage than if you try to do it as a divorced woman. A lot of people do. I mean there are a lot of single women heading households now days, but it obviously helps if you have a husband who is understanding, a modern, contemporary man who will help you carry some of the load. It certainly is not easy, and it's not as if you are going to find those years terribly satisfying when you are trying to do it all. When I was married and had stepchildren and had a career, then I think there were periods when no one, including me, was totally satisfied. Everything was getting a little bit of me and not as much as I wanted to give to any one thing. It was pretty tough. But eventually, I think it can be very satisfying to try to do all three.

Did you find that trying to start your company as a woman was difficult, or were your ideas so overwhelming that being a woman really wasn't a problem?

I think the latter is probably more true than not. If you are working with a great idea, and my idea was invented by more than me so I can call it a great idea, it is a whole lot easier for people to forget that you are a woman. I suppose there was some prejudice at various times, but it was also a period when the women's movement was really coming on stream. I got many, many breaks because of being a woman. I don't know if a male who had Children's Television Workshop would have been asked to go on corporate boards for example. Whereas, I've been asked to be a member of a number of corporate boards and am a member of four. I've also been a trustee of interesting organizations. I've been asked into a lot of things precisely because I am a "successful woman," and they "need a woman" to balance it or because they want more women on this or that commission or committee. The Council on Foreign Relations, for example, which is a very prestigious foreign policy think-tank, started letting women in, in the late '60s or early '70s. I don't know if I would have been asked had they not wanted women, because I wasn't exactly up on foreign policy, although my company was becoming international. So I got many, many, many things I wouldn't have gotten because I was a woman. There are many side benefits from being a woman. There was much more good than bad.

I don't know if there was any bad. Right at the point you are starting to become the head of something, as I was with this little company, there are men backers who say, "Can it be a woman, can it be an inexperienced woman?" I wasn't experienced at running anything when I started this. I think there was a little prejudice, but it was never overpowering, and I think also probably all women have learned what I learned: women have to be a little bit better than their male peers. We always laugh and say it will be wonderful when the day comes that a mediocre woman can succeed along with all the mediocre men who succeed. But that day is not here yet, and so women have to be a little better. If they are, then some of the walls, if you're in the right industry, do come crumbling down.

Do you feel that the women's movement is at the same peak that it was when you started out, or do you see it starting to decline or level off?

Well, I think it is different. To the degree that it seems to be leveling

"We are always trying to teach children to be kind to one another and people to be kind to one another."

off or declining, that's just because it is the victim of its own success. I don't think new, young women coming on stream understand what went before. There is no reason, if you are a woman lawyer and get into a good law firm, for you to join NOW, the National Organization for Women. You could really say, "What's all the shouting about?" The movement has changed and has become far more child-centered. There is much more worry about getting good child care for women so that they can work because the workplace needs them. It's not a question of helping them succeed; their bodies are needed. We have a shortage of labor in this country that is going to become more and more acute, which means child care will become a much bigger issue. I think the abortion issue is certainly going to become a big movement; it is a big movement. The pro-choice women are the new feminists, the feminists of this period. And well they should be, because there is nothing that puts women back in time more than men discussing their reproductive rights.

You seemed to have had a vision of helping disadvantaged children. Did you, and if so, what qualities do you think you possess that made it possible for you to bring your vision to fruition?

I certainly wanted to help disadvantaged people when I started at Channel 13, the public television station here in 1962. I did a number of programs on learning deficits in the poverty community, both adults and children. I was deeply involved in presenting all kinds of programs on the anti-poverty program, which was the start of the Great Society program in Washington. And the civil rights movement was an enormous passion of mine. I did a lot of shows about civil rights. So when I was asked to do a study on the potential uses of television in preschool education, I lunged at it, because that was precisely the kind of thing that I had become obsessed with, in doing something to make a difference in the lives of the poor, and particularly poor children. It was perfect.

I did not suddenly have a vision that I was going to do something for preschool children. They liked the study, and everything started clicking into place. We turned it into a grant proposal, and I became head of what we created, which was called the Children's Television Workshop. Eighteen months from that time, we had "Sesame Street"

The "Sesame Street" cast celebrates the show's 20th anniversary in 1989. While many of the most famous characters are Muppets, humans play an important role in teaching about relationships, cultural sensitivity, birth and death. Children, elderly people, minorities and the disabled are all represented in the cast.

on the air, and then the "Electric Company," and then we turned the company into a money-producing company, that is we went into a number of businesses, licensing international sales, so that I eventually became a business person. But all the time, I was most interested in what we were doing in the programming area for children. We did "Electric Company" and then "3-2-1 Contact," which is science for 8- to 12-year-olds. "Square One TV" is mathematics for 8- to 12-year-olds. We are now trying to raise money to do a literacy program teaching reading and writing to 6- to 9-year-olds. I stay involved in setting new curriculum aims. This particular year we are discussing how the show can deal with racism, whether there is something constructive we can do for little kids on that subject.

Your shows teach more than just reading and arithmetic. Do you see them as a way of teaching life issues, such as values and ethics?

Yes. We don't teach just reading and writing and pre-reading and writing. We teach lots of things. We are always trying to teach children to be kind to one another and people to be kind to one another.

Colleges and universities are just beginning to come back to teaching values and ethics, having abandoned that for several years. There is an ongoing argument among faculty members as to whose values should be taught. Can you speak to how you decide what values to address?

We've been through that here, and my answer is that there's a consensus around certain values. There certainly is a consensus about people cooperating with one another to create something better. You have to give up something in order to cooperate to do something. If no one does, you don't have a society. We don't feel that there's any argument about treating all people in a kind, gentle way. You certainly have a right to self-defense, but we don't have to get into that with our little kids. Aside from that, it seems to me that it is a universal value to treat people with kindness and acceptance, especially those who are different, those who are disabled and those who have grown up as minorities. We certainly believe that it's a value to tell the truth in most situations, to not steal, to do the right thing. You can usually figure out what the right thing is, and children are very interested in justice and fairness. We have no problem discussing justice and fairness.

Your issues have kept up with changing times. For example, you are planning to deal with racism this next year. Is this a planned thing, or does it just happen?

Oh no, every year we decide what has changed in society, what the needs of the children are. Last year we were talking about ecology and geography and added a number of segments about those subjects. We add new things every year. We have always planned to keep right up with what the concerns and needs of children are, trying to stretch television to do more.

We do a lot of research. Our researchers go out and talk to children and give them little tests, like showing them dolls and drawings to get their interpretations so that the experts can tell us where children are developmentally. Then we have experts come in and talk to the writers and producers of "Sesame Street." So people are sitting around the table for two days, having read the research and listened to the experts. And then they talk among themselves and decide what can be done, based on what they have heard and know, that would benefit our audience. Then those things are tested so that we know how to accomplish what we want to accomplish.

Are most of your ideas successful, or sometimes do you have to go back to the drawing board?

Well, we know so much now that quite often we learn that the 3-year-olds don't get what we are doing. Four-year-olds get so much. Five-year-olds get much more, say on ecology or geography, but so many 5-year-olds are in school. We want them to watch and learn, but we don't want to lose our twos and

Your shows have been aired on public television. Have you been disappointed that commercial television has not bought your shows?

We have done some commercial things. We did an HBO series, called "Encyclopedia," and we are probably going to do some work with the Fox Network. But public television gives us the kind of air time we want. It's not a second-rate situation for us. It's the absolute network of choice.

It's a big disappointment that commercial TV has not had an interest in educational programming, to me.

The second was to be inducted into the Television Academy Hall of Fame in January 1990. Those were the great thrills of my career.

Do you plan to keep on working? Is retirement in your near future?

I'll always work. I will not stay as Chief Executive Officer of this company forever. It's time that I start preparing for succession, and I expect to do that in the next year or so. But I will remain in some capacity at the company because there are certain things I like to do and want to do on the creative and programmatic side. In fact, I'd rather spend my time in that rather than in administration.

When you look back over everything you have done, do you feel good about what you have accomplished? Would you have done anything differently?

Oh gosh, that's not the kind of question I really feel I can answer. I'm not smug. I don't know if there's anything I'd do differently. I've made a lot of mistakes. You always wish you had done more and could have ten different careers. I'm a complicated person who wishes I'd done a lot more.

Is there anything you would like to say to young college women who are going to follow in your footsteps in television or education or in any career?

You want to say, 'Aim high.' Don't accept that you can't. If you want to go all the way in a career, then don't accept that you can't; don't let anyone tell you that you can't. But you have to be prepared to work very hard if you want a major career—to work very, very hard. There is no secret to success. It's not a secret. What you have to do is really work hard. I don't say to women, 'Do it! Go for it!' Because a lot of them don't want to, and they should do what they want to do. But for those who want to, I would say, 'Go for it.'

threes, which is the larger part of our audience. We decide how to make adjustments to appeal to more of our audience. Sometimes the research will come back and say the children were bored, that virtually no one got it.

How do you respond to the criticism that "Sesame Street" limits a child's attention span?

That's just an assertion by someone who has done no research. The research shows the opposite. The fact is, that "Sesame Street" viewers have longer attention spans than non-viewers, and that has been documented.

but it's not profitable. They're not going to do it. We all let that happen, we as citizens. But it happened, and it's not going to change.

Of all the honors you have received, which would you say is the one you value the most?

There are two that meant the most to me. One was to be the Centennial Alumna of the University of Arizona in May 1988. On the anniversary of the Land Grant Act, a national committee asked all land grant colleges and universities to submit a short list of alumni that they would recommend for the award. I was the one chosen for the University of Arizona. That was an immense honor and very satisfying

Theta Wants You

As rush season approaches, collegians have already begun planning their campaigns to attract the best and brightest candidates for Theta membership. Alumnae, too, can join the Theta rally by supporting Theta's college chapters in their efforts. While it's the college chapters that put on the costumes, perform the skits and host elaborate parties during rush, alumnae can have a valuable impact on a successful rush for Theta.

To Campaign for Greeks

Before a young woman ever attends any rush parties—even before she leaves for school—she encounters the first important link in Theta's rush process: a Theta alumna. As a friend of the family, a teacher or a relative, an alumna is often the first contact a prospective rushee has with the Greek system and Kappa Alpha Theta.

Begin the rush process by telling young women what your membership in a women's Greek organization has meant to you, both while you were in college and as an alumna. You can make an outstanding high school student aware of the possibilities for leadership experiences, academic support and social growth that the Greek system offers on a college campus. Knowing that the Greek system offers a home away from home may ease her fears about going off to school.

You can also ease any apprehension about rush by explaining the rush process and encouraging her to keep an open mind and to be herself during rush. While alumnae are often reluctant to discuss their Greek affiliation with a daughter, granddaughter or friend for fear of exerting unwanted pressure on the rushee, encouraging her to explore several options and to make her own decision about Greek membership will make her more comfortable about her choice.

To Support Theta

As an alumna, your pride in your Theta membership is one of the best campaign tools we have.

You can use this tool to campaign for Theta—by talking openly and honestly about your Theta experiences. Let young women know you are—present tense—a Theta. Your enthusiasm can show a side of fraternity membership that a rushee misses during the skits and parties: a lifelong sisterhood that lasts beyond the college years.

To Know Your Candidates

If you know of an outstanding young woman who might be considering rush, put her on the college chapter ticket by writing a recommendation on her behalf.

The recommendation and legacy introduction forms in this issue are the best ways to call attention to your candidate. In submitting a recommendation, be as specific as possible about the young woman's academic record, activities and interests, and include a photograph, if possible. Your comments provide a valuable rushing tool and can help the chapter members engage in meaningful conversations with each candidate.

Send early, unsolicited recommendations to the rush recommendation board in the rushee's community or, if there is no board, directly to the college chapter (listed in this issue's directory insert). Don't wait for the chapter to request alumnae assistance. Chapters with fall rush must have recommendations by July 15, and those with deferred rush need the forms by September 15.

To Vote for Success

As an alumna, you play a vital role in shaping the next generation of Thetas. Elect now to support a college chapter's rush campaign in any way you can so that young women of the '90s can experience all the benefits of Theta membership that you have enjoyed.

To Volunteer for the Party

Like a political party, Theta relies on its constituents—collegians and alumnae—to maintain its growth and strength. Opportunities for involvement in rush extend beyond writing a recommendation for an outstanding candidate.

Alumnae can play vital roles in supporting the party as rush recommendation board members and chapter rush advisers. Theta's network of recommendation boards is responsible for collecting recommendations for outstanding high school women in cities throughout the U.S. and Canada, processing the recommendations and then forwarding them to the college chapters. Rush advisers work with chapter rush chairmen in planning parties, holding rush workshops and running smooth membership selection meetings. In addition, many college chapters welcome support from local alumnae who offer their homes for rush meetings and help hostess rush parties, prepare and serve refreshments, take coats and help with paperwork during membership selection. A note of encouragement, a batch of cookies or a flower arrangement for party decorations can be a much-appreciated way of supporting the chapter.

Fraternity FYI

Theta Continues to Grow

MIT

The Fraternity will be establishing a colony at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the fall of 1990. Alumnae are encouraged to send recommendations for prospective rushees at MIT to Central Office in care of Kathy Spicer, Director of Alumnae Rush Personnel.

University of Idaho

Theta is also expanding in January 1991, when the Beta Theta Chapter will be re-established at the University of Idaho in Moscow. As part of the activities leading up to the re-colonization, Theta is co-sponsoring a seminar in August with the Bon Marche department store in Moscow. The seminar, titled "How to Get the Most Out of College," will be targeted toward college-bound high school women and will feature a style show by Bon Marche. Recommendations for women attending the University of Idaho may be sent to Central Office in care of Kathy Spicer.

Central Office Staff Celebrates Earth Day

The Theta staff at Central Office celebrated Earth Day on Friday, April 20. To draw attention to "the Decade of the Environment," policies already in place which conserve resources were acknowledged and new procedures initiated. Recycled paper is used in the office, and staff members are encouraged to use both sides of the page. Discarded paper is separated from other trash and collected for recycling. Ceramic coffee mugs and glasses replace disposable cups, and soft drink containers are collected and recirculated. On Friday, each staff member was given a tree to take home and plant, and employees of the other Greek offices in the College Park area were invited to a clean-up-the-neighborhood party. Notices will be placed in the Convention cloth tote bags encouraging members to use them as shopping bags instead of paper or plastic bags. Theta cares about the environment, and all Thetas are encouraged to do their part in protecting our planet.

Alpha Omega Chapter Schedules Anniversary

Alumnae and collegians from Alpha Omega Chapter/Pittsburgh will be celebrating the chapter's 75th anniversary the weekend of November 30-December 1, 1990. More information will be forthcoming from the chapter.

Philadelphia Alumnae Panhellenic Offers $500 Scholarship

The Philadelphia Alumnae Panhellenic will award a $500 scholarship to a fraternity woman doing graduate work at a college or university in the five-county (Philadelphia, Delaware, Montgomery, Chester or Bucks) Philadelphia area during the 1990-91 school year. Those interested should request an application from Krista L. Killen, 1020 Beaumont Road, Berwyn, PA 19312. Applications must be postmarked before August 15, 1990.

Correction: Initiation at convention will be Saturday, June 30.

THE TALK

The Alumnae Committee and Grand Vice President Alumnae Jane Hedges recognize the importance of keeping alumnae who are geographically apart from club or chapter activities apprised of Theta interaction.

For this reason, Theta's program for "members at-large" has been developed by Wilma Arbuckle, director of chapters-at-large. The THETA TALK newsletter is issued at least twice each year, with information about Theta sisters who are living all around the world. This personal means of keeping in touch is available to you if you will complete and return the form provided.

Kappa Alpha Theta Foundation

Letters Praise Foundation Projects

I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude for your sponsorship of Chapter Manager. The program has opened new horizons for me and the Alpha Nu Chapter/Montana.

The chapter's financial status is healthy and organized due to the structure Chapter Manager has provided. For the first time in many years, we had a surplus to transfer to the house corporation board. We are able to closely track our expenses and follow our delinquencies (much to the dismay of a few members!).

The skills I have acquired through Chapter Manager have enabled me to gain new employment. I have recently changed careers from banking to accounting and am now employed as the accountant for a major travel company in Missoula, Mont. My experience as financial adviser impressed my new employer. She looked favorably upon my abilities to not only manage the chapter budget and learn the software, but also to supervise collegians.

Again, thank you for enriching Alpha Nu Chapter and influencing my aspirations.

Jörrun Fallan Liston

Alpha Nu/Montana
Alpha Nu Financial Adviser

On Saturday, January 27, 1990, I had a wonderful experience. I was invited to attend the Founders Day Luncheon in Tulsa, Okla.

In addition to being a part of an inspirational celebration of our founding, I was able to share with other Thetas my own experience as a CASA volunteer and the state coordinator of the Oklahoma CASA Association. It means so much to me as a Theta that my own national Fraternity selected a philanthropy with which I am quite familiar, as I started a CASA program in my own community of Shawnee, Okla. in 1985. CASA is an organization that merits the financial support of Kappa Alpha Theta. I also applaud the choice because I believe it encourages the idea of volunteerism in Thetas of all ages. As you may detect, I am thrilled about the partnership between Kappa Alpha Theta and CASA!

Thanks for the opportunity to brag about Theta and express my support for CASA.

Nance Langden Diamond

Alpha Omicron/Oklahoma

As president of the Toledo Alumnae Chapter, I was so impressed with the recent mailing from the Fraternity containing the alumnae chapter materials.

I really enjoyed the Balanced Woman Series — excellent topics. The Foundation should be applauded for underwriting Fraternity programs that focus on teaching skills and knowledge that meet Kappa Alpha Theta's purpose of promoting social, moral and intellectual growth. It's reassuring to me to know that our college Thetas are being exposed to important health topics and are discussing moral issues. So much education happens outside the classroom!

I'm especially appreciative of the Foundation's fine work since my daughter, Megan, just pledged Kappa Alpha Theta at Indiana University! (I'm higher than a kite!) I know she will benefit, as I have, from our sisterhood.

I'm proud to be a Theta!

Foundation Offers Brochure on Trusts, Estate Planning

Any member or relative of a Theta may request brochures on a few selected estate and financial planning topics from the Foundation. Currently available from the Foundation office is a brochure on the use of trusts to achieve one's personal financial goals.

Especially important to women is the ability of a trust to add significantly to the practical financial security for families and other beneficiaries. Trusts can save estate taxes and probate costs, produce meaningful income tax savings and permit control over the use and disposition of property.

A carefully designed charitable trust can often increase personal income as well as provide immediate tax benefits.

Even though many people perceive trusts as vague and mysterious, the basic concept of a trust is very simple. It is a relationship whereby one person or institution owns, manages, invests and uses property for the benefit of other people.

A trust agreement is a specific plan for the management, investment and use of the trust property. Each trust agreement is written to accomplish the specific objectives of the person creating it. Taking the time to plan and draft the agreement, to choose the right person to serve as trustee and to provide flexibility to meet changing conditions and circumstances are keys to a successful trust plan.

For more information or to receive a copy of the brochure about trusts, please call or write Pam Ferree, Foundation Executive Director.

California Thetas Seek Bettie Locke Society Members

Alumnae in Pasadena organized a Special Gifts Committee on behalf of the Foundation's Annual Fund in April, making it the third city to join this effort. Chairmen of the Pasadena Special Gifts Committee are Patricia Williams Finley, Beta Xi/UCLA and Victoria Laughlin McCluggage, Omicron/USC. The Bettie Locke Society recognizes members for their unrestricted annual gifts of $1,000 or more.

Increased contributions to the Annual Fund are being sought in an effort to strengthen the educational programs of Kappa Alpha Theta. Revenue generated through this effort will be applied to four of Theta's most important educational programs, which are underwritten by the Foundation: the Balanced Woman Series, Chapter Consultant program, Chapter Manager (computerization) and attendance at the LeaderShape Institute.

Special Gifts Committees were organized in Chicago and Indianapolis late last year. In addition, Foundation Trustees have contacted members across the United States who would not be reached by a committee.

Additional information about the Bettie Locke Society or the programs funded by the Foundation can be obtained by contacting Pam Ferree.

Recognition pin for Bettie Locke Society gifts of $1,000 or more.

Foundation Grants Start New CASA Programs

Thanks to Startup Grants made possible by a $50,000 gift from the Foundation, abused and neglected children in six communities will have a voice in court through new CASA programs. Twenty-one agencies applied for the grants awarded to CASA organizations assigning volunteers for one year or less. Priority was given to programs in urban areas and states not having CASA programs.

The National CASA Association selected organizations in Atlanta, Ga.; Washington, D.C.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Olympia, Wash.; Springfield, Mass. and Kerrville, Texas to receive startup funds for a period of 18 months.

Thetas in Kerrville celebrated the announcement of the Hill Country CASA grant of $10,000 in conjunction with Founders Day. Project administrator Dorothy (MiMi) Brinker McGrover, Beta Sigma/SMU, told Thetas in attendance about the value of the Kerr County program.

Events

Ten 50-year Thetas were honored at the Columbus Alumnae Chapter's Founders Day luncheon in January. Alpha Gamma/Ohio State alumnae Wanda May Ray, Kay Wead Jones, Betty Jean Rounsevel, Mary Hole Suler, Geraldine Weider McDonald, Jo Wright Kennedy, Margaret Powell Greiser and Marjorie Garvin Sayers; Gay Hull Gruber, Alpha Delta/Goucher and Jean Zimmerman Guerin, Beta Tau/Denison participated in the event.

Three 50-year-plus Thetas were the guests of honor at a Rockford Alumnae Chapter meeting in November at the Wesley Willows Retirement Home. Alice Stevens, Tau/Northwestern, Faith Armstrong, Eta/Michigan, and Dr. Frances Johnson, Upsilon/Minnesota, shared memories of their Theta experiences at Big Ten schools in the early 1900s.

Alumnae and collegians from Lambda/Vermont gathered at the chapter house in January for a Founders Day celebration. Alumnae from the 1920s through the '80s braved a snowstorm to participate in the festivities, which included speakers, a slide show and a house tour.

Service chairmen Heather Bryant, Alpha Omicron/Oklahoma, and Jeff Lee, Kappa Alpha Fraternity, discuss plans for their chapters' Bowl-a-Thon philanthropy project with representatives from CASA and the Muscular Dystrophy Association, which benefited from the event.

Beta Tau Chapter/Denison and Denison's BACCHUS chapter co-sponsored a lecture in conjunction with the campus Alcohol Awareness Week. The chapter asked Pat Cramer to speak about alcohol and the Greek system. Cramer spoke on the topic at Theta's 1989 Leadership Conference at Ohio State.

Pat Cramer, center, pauses with two collegians from Beta Tau Chapter/Denison, after she presented a seminar on alcohol. Beta Tau co-sponsored the lecture with BACCHUS.

Alpha Omicron/Oklahoma collegians sponsored a "Bowl-A-Thon" with Kappa Alpha Fraternity in November, which raised $3,000 for CASA and the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The local CASA program recognized the chapter's efforts with a plaque in February. The chapter is currently planning a concession booth at Oklahoma home football games to raise more money next fall.

Theta Profile

Zara Rolfes

Zara Rolfes: On The Fast Track to Success at GM

For most of us, the words “Just Do It” are nothing more than a '90s catch phrase that sells athletic shoes.

For Zara Rolfes, Alpha Chi/Purdue, they're words to live by.

At 33, Rolfes has done remarkable things with her life. This dynamic, motivated and extremely personable young woman is an upper-level engineer with the Chevrolet-Pontiac-Canada Group just outside Detroit, part of a team that engineers and develops General Motors' line of high-performance sportscars.

Rolfes' career is indeed enviable, but her motivation and drive are more so. She is thrilled by taking on new challenges, particularly in unfamiliar waters. “You don't necessarily have to be an expert to make the most of the growth process,” she says. “The most progress comes out of throwing yourself into an environment where you're not comfortable.” What motivates her? “The

When she wasn't sneaking off to the track, Rolfes compiled an impressive academic record at Pike High School. When she graduated in 1975, she was named Marion County Pupil of the Year by the Indianapolis Star.

Rolfes admits that when she went off to Purdue, she was afraid she wouldn't be able to maintain her outstanding record. But in the Alpha Chi Chapter, she found “an environment of highly-charged, dedicated women,” she says. Particularly drawn to the older women in the chapter, Rolfes says that there were three or four seniors who gave her encouragement, support and motivation to achieve.

At the same time, she made some close friends and enjoyed herself. “I was one of the first engineering majors the chapter had pledged, and that made me realize that there was more to life than engineering,” she says.

Rolfes originally wanted to go to art school, but quickly realized that a career in art was not a choice that would lead to financial stability. Through a summer internship as a General Motors Corporation Scholar in 1976, she discovered CAD, a computer-aided drafting system, as a way to combine her interest in art and her desire for a solid career. At the end of the program, she decided that CAD was definitely not in her future, but the connections with engineering and GM stuck.

Rolfes graduated summa cum laude from Purdue in 1979, received her master's degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Michigan in 1980, and went to work with GM. In the next several years, she held positions as product planner, development engineer at GM's Milford Proving Grounds and engineer for GM's 1990 Sportscar Pro-determination to make the most of the gifts I've been given,” she says. “It really is a driver to say, ‘Am I pushing myself to the maximum?’”

Rolfes grew up in Indianapolis, a city where all conversation during May tends to revolve around the Indianapolis 500. A car enthusiast, Rolfes laughingly recalls getting into a bit of trouble in high school for skipping class to go to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Now, she delights in attending the race every year as a representative of GM, gram. She takes a great deal of pride in being part of the team that designed and developed the airbag driver and passenger restraint system for the 1990 Corvette, an international effort with design and engineering partners in Germany.

In her current capacity as assistant chief engineer for the Camaro/Firebird Program, Rolfes is among the managers of a team of 300, which oversees the entire concept-to-finished-product process for the 1993 models. It is a job that she clearly loves, calling it her "Toys 'R' Us." "I am a car enthusiast, but there are other things that make me do what I do—the leadership, the coaching. What keeps me here is the chance to make a difference," she says.

In describing what she does, Rolfes talks repeatedly about teamwork. She says she is fortunate to work in an environment where the people she works with empower her to push herself. In an industry that is traditionally very conservative, Rolfes has had opportunities at GM to take risks and go beyond her own limits. And she has influenced others to do so, as well. She feels a great accomplishment has been watching five people who have worked for her receive promotions. "Your feeling of gratification comes from watching others succeed," she says.

While Rolfes has established herself as an outstanding engineer, she is equally as intent on making the most of her free time. She depends on a rigorous exercise program for the energy necessary for a hectic workday, and she enjoys music, art, cultural reading and foreign languages and, of course, automobile racing. She notes that it is difficult to balance a career with a life away from the office. But she isn't weighed down with trying to juggle a full life; she steps back and evaluates her priorities. While there are days when she is in the office until 10 p.m. or later, she admits to hoarding vacation time so she can disappear for a month of well-deserved rest. "People anguish over balance," she says, "but you have to deal with it. If you make something an issue, it will be an issue."

While many would find an amusing irony in the fact that Rolfes is a woman in the "man's world" of performance sportscars, she's never seen it that way. The oldest and only girl in a family of four children, she says, "I grew up in a family of boys, and I never was made to think that I was any different. What I proceeded to do in college and in my career was an extension of that."

Rolfes has been featured in a number of magazine articles dealing with women in business, although she feels her gender has never been a big issue. "I don't view it as a man's world at all. When I was first asked what it was like to be a woman in business, I drew a blank," she says. "If you choose not to carry the baggage of 'I'm different,' there's nothing to stop you but yourself."

While Rolfes may consider herself "one of the boys," she's very much a lady. And she enthusiastically points out that Theta has had an important role in her life. "So much of who I am I can trace to my college years and Theta," she says.

Rolfes feels that the Greek experience has given her, and others, an edge in the business world. Being a member of a Greek chapter has taught her about, as she says, "the WS,LS—win some, lose some. It's like living in the Theta house; there's a lot of give and take."

Rolfes says she often encounters people in the course of doing business who belong to Greek organizations and to whom she can instantly relate. She finds that many business people who belonged to Greek chapters are particularly successful. "It's because they were in a special society that won't allow you to be anything but motivated," she says.

Rolfes' personal motivation is contagious, and she is quick to offer encouragement to young women entering the business world. She urges women to continually push themselves, to periodically break out of their comfort zone and pursue challenges where they don't have expertise. "Early on, get into a situation where you get the trench warfare jobs, you get the bumps and bruises—and you get the experience," she says. She acknowledges the importance of having "deliverables," solid results to show for your work—a new product, an improved way of getting the job done, a sphere of influence. "Get deliverables associated with your name," she says. "That's how you build your network."

For Rolfes, the true bottom line is enjoying what she does, something she wholeheartedly recommends. "Go into a career where you will always be around something you love," she advises. "So many people fight between the heart and the head and are often guilty of listening to the head. There's nothing wrong with listening to the heart—that most often leads you the right way."

Rolfes' seemingly unlimited energy, her contagious motivation and her positive outlook lead her to measure success by surpassing her personal limits and watching others do the same. And she is quick to recognize the foundation of her achievements, something she encourages young women to do as well. "Just do it!," she says. "Almost all of us have been given such a fortunate experience—college, Theta, supportive families. The opportunities for you to make a difference are unlimited."

Theta Families!

"We are more than just sisters, we are part of each other," says Sandra Morgan with identical twin sisters Shauna and Sherri. The three are members of Delta Iota Chapter/Puget Sound.

Betsy Beaver, right, is the first Epsilon Lambda/Dickinson legacy to pledge to the chapter, here with her sister Meg.
